PHOTOGRAPHER OF THE YEAR 2026

After two years of war, Gaza stands between ruins, hunger, and loss

Ali Jadallah

Editorial / Press Photographer of the Year

Two years of bombardment, displacement, and starvation have reshaped life in Gaza. Tens of thousands have lost their lives, while millions have been forced from their homes. With food supplies blocked and infrastructure destroyed, hunger has become a weapon of war. These images document not only the ruins of cities, but the endurance of people waiting in food lines, searching for safety, and struggling to survive amid one of the gravest humanitarian crises of the 21st century.

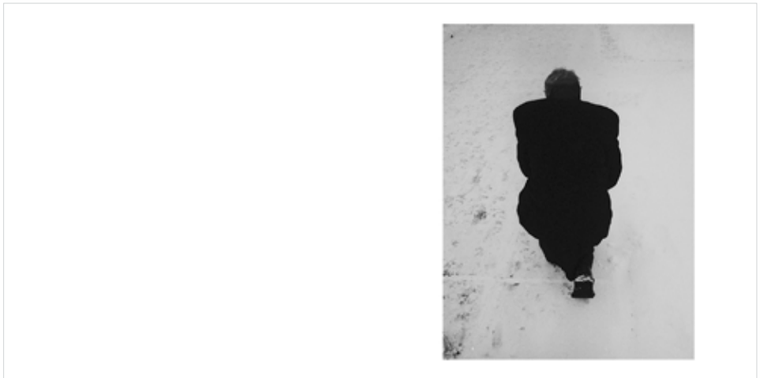

TEREN ZIELONY

Fabio Domenicali

Book Photographer of the Year

In the winter of 2008, I traveled to Poland to search for the scars left by the twentieth century, from the Holocaust to Soviet domination. Instead, I was drawn to vast, silent landscapes of fields, forests, mountains, and frozen shores, places still shaped by memory and untouched by modern life. The journey became an intimate inner experience of silence and reflection. In 2023 I returned, avoiding cities,to seek that same thread of memory and enchantment. The photographs were taken during those two winters. They reflect time suspended, fragile presences, and the quiet magic of those encounters.

CATEGORY WINNERS
PROFESSIONALS

Alan Cumming
Photographer: Chris Sorensen (United States)
Prize: Advertising Photographer of the Year
Description: A series of artistic portraits made with actor Alan Cumming with styling by Cynthia Altoriso and grooming by Damian Monzillo.

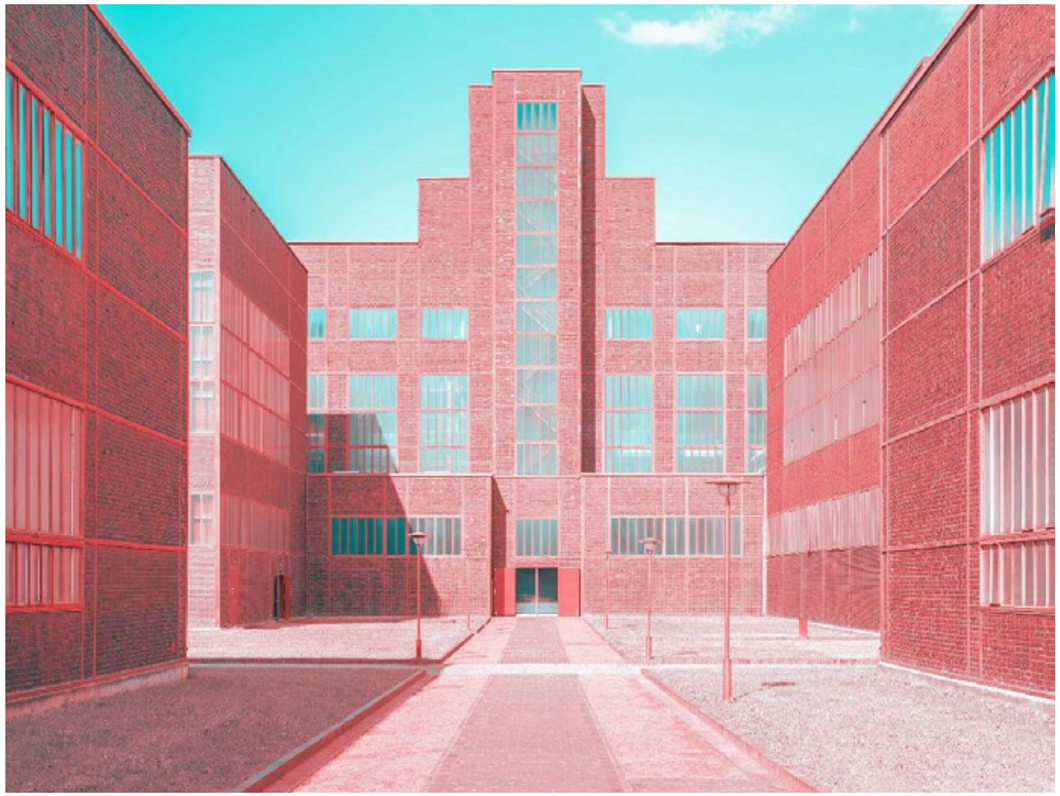

Rocky Mountains On Wetplate Collodion 2025

Photographer: Bill Hao (Canada)

Prize: Analog / Film Photographer of the Year

Description: Bill Hao made an Ultra Large Format Camera (32x48in) and using Wetplate Collodion Process takes picture on huge glass plate. He converted a 50 seats tour bus into an off grid mobile darkroom because this process requires immediate development after exposure. He has photographed the Rocky Mountains hundreds of times over the past decade. His works may last for two hundred years, but some landscapes may not. They are disappearing and face severe damage from wildfires, melting glaciers, as well as tourism pressures. Bill Hao used the oldest form of photography to warn the world to protect the precious natural.

Poetry of Matter

Photographer: Gianluca Santoni (Italy)

Prize: Architecture Photographer of the Year

Description: At Zollverein Coal Mine Industrial Complex, architecture becomes a poetry of concrete and steel, where form and function merge in balance. The structures evoke memory and vision, with pure geometries and light transforming spaces into changing scenographies. Heir to the spirit of Bauhaus, the site speaks of labor, transformation, and rebirth. It is not just a former industrial complex, but a symbolic place a bridge between past and future. Today, though it no longer produces coal, Zollverein inspires creatives, becoming a “machine of visions” that transforms heritage into cultural expression.

Birds of A Feather

Photographer: Claire Rosen (United States)

Prize: Book Photographer of the Year

Description: Birds of a Feather, a book of portraits of live birds, set against historically inspired backdrops that refer to the decorative traditions of past centuries. This interplay of subject and setting invites reflection on themes of beauty, domestication, and the human impulse to collect and categorize the natural world. The book's 120 color photographs, essays and historical quotations weave a layered narrative that connects ornithology, art history, and ethical questions surrounding human-animal relationships.

After Two Years Of War, Gaza Stands Between Ruins, Hunger, And Loss

Photographer: Ali Jadallah (Turkey)

Prize: Editorial / Press Photographer of the Year

Description: Two years of bombardment, displacement, and starvation have reshaped life in Gaza. Tens of thousands have lost their lives, while millions have been forced from their homes. With food supplies blocked and infrastructure destroyed, hunger has become a weapon of war. These images document not only the ruins of cities, but the endurance of people waiting in food lines, searching for safety, and struggling to survive amid one of the gravest humanitarian crises of the 21st century.

Kavant

Photographer: Ken Hermann (Denmark)

Prize: Event Photographer of the Year

Description: In the remote hills of eastern Gujarat, every year after Holi, the quiet village of Kavant transforms into a living canvas of rhythm, color, and ancestral pride. The Kavant Fair, also known as Kavant Gher, is one of India's most vibrant and authentic tribal gatherings — a celebration where the Rathwa community comes together to thank the earth for a generous harvest and to renew the heartbeat of their heritage through dance, music, and ritual.

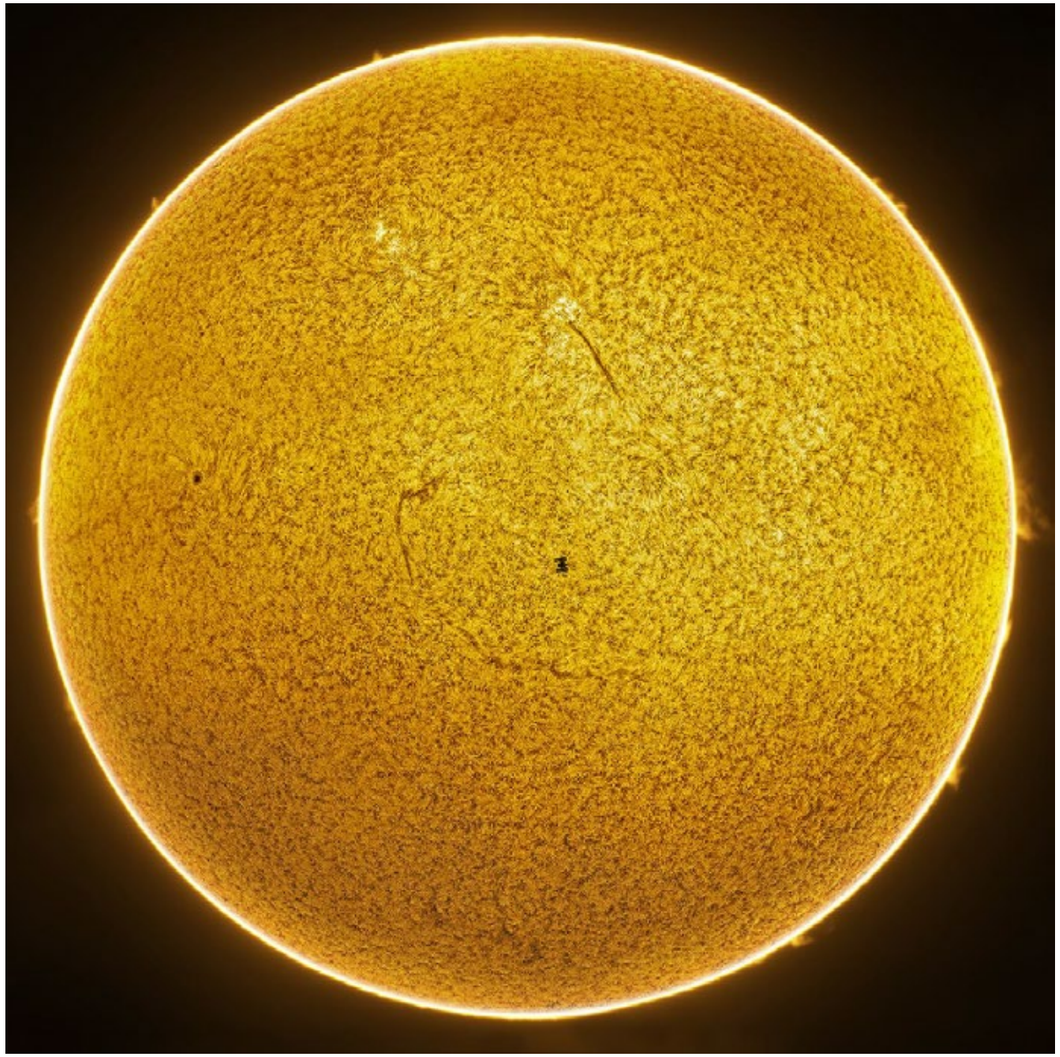

Painful Hug

Photographer: Maryam Saeedpoor (Iran)

Prize: Fine Art Photographer of the Year

Description: I spent all the days of the war on the rooftop.I want to hold Tehran in my arms and not let it be harmed.I wish all the leaders of the world would embrace each other so that there would be no war anywhere in the world.

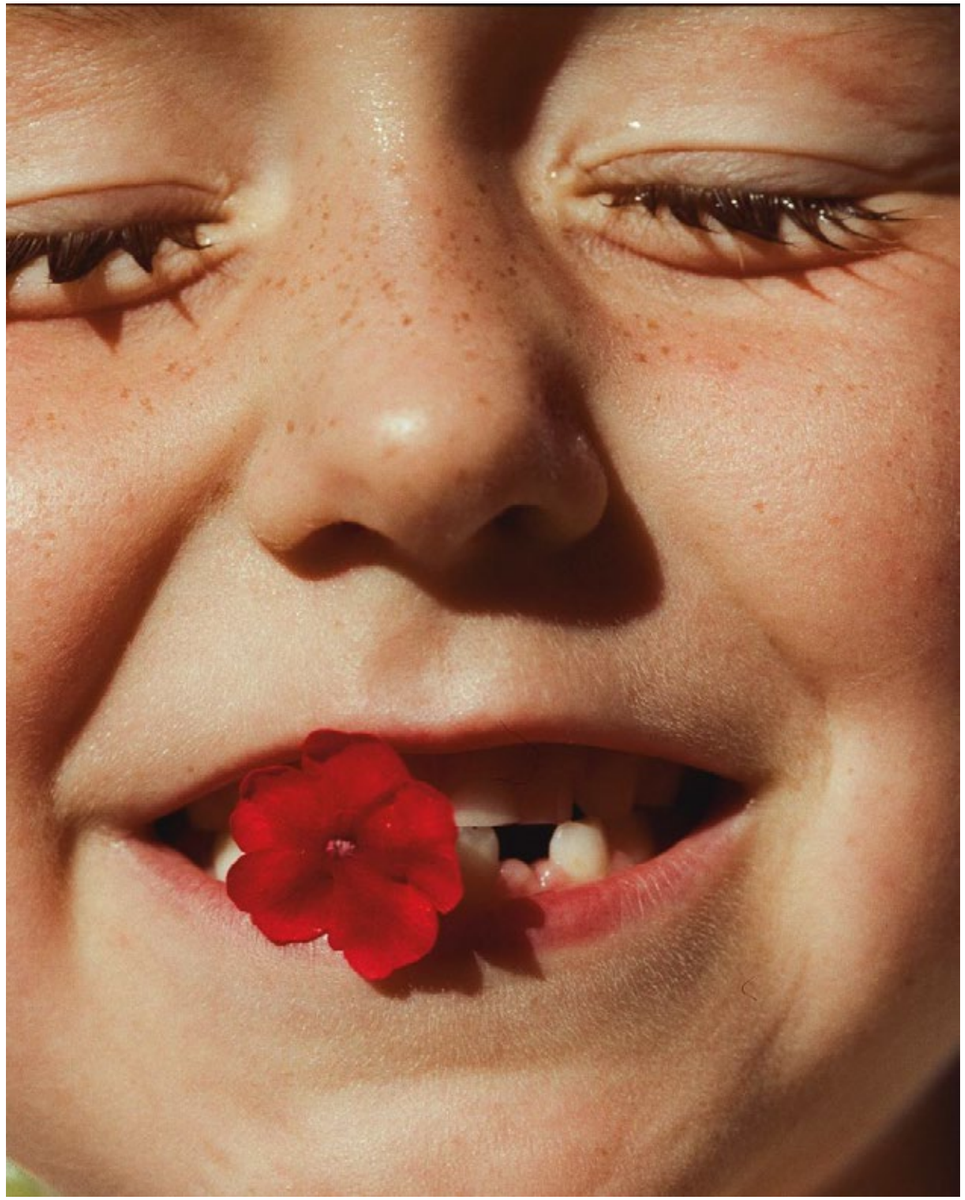

Ground Control To Major Tom

Photographer: Jakob Andersen (Denmark)

Prize: Nature Photographer of the Year

Description: The ISS international space station in front of the sun. The sun is shot here in H-Alpha wavelength, through my telescope to which a quark daystar solarfilter was mounted with the camera behind.
The lineup was not easy - From where I live, there was only one place on the map where I could get power to my telescope - So I packed up and drove 20km to this spot and set up my kamera and scope.
This location was almost perfectly on the centerline for the passing. I was in good time, and spent almost an hour setting fokus multiple times as the scope got hotter. And, in an instant the ISS passed.

The Milky Days.

Photographer: Alicia Sanchez Cabanes (Germany)

Prize: People Photographer of the Year

Description: Since becoming a mother, my photographic practice has turned toward my own life. Living far from my home country and raising children in a life of constant movement, I am fascinated by how childhood memories and experiences of belonging are shaped through time and place. In watching my children grow and transform through their connection to nature, I explore the way to preserve somehow a sense of wonder and freedom. All images are made on medium-format and 35mm film.

Pubblico e Privato

Photographer: Patrizia Pezzino (Italy)

Prize: Special Photographer of the Year

Description: Advertising has always intrigued me, especially because, despite constantly occupying new spaces and acquiring ever-increasing dimensions, it is so intertwined with our lives that it becomes paradoxically invisible, transforming us into the ever-changing spectacle reflected in its immobility.

Momentum

Photographer: Davide Bastianelli (Italy)

Prize: Sports Photographer of the Year

Description: Momentum is a photographic project that investigates the athletic body as a space of tension between the instant and movement. Through the language of black and white, the images strip away the superfluous to focus on the structure of the gesture and on muscular tension. Basketball thus becomes a space for observing the body as a social and symbolic construction. The hands, a fundamental part of the human being, emerge as the fulcrum of the action.

Boring

Photographer: Anna Matysiak (Poland)

Prize: Advertising Photographer of the Year

Description: The photo is an interpretation of free time. We give up relationships with others in favor of the objects around us that provide entertainment. And even though there are more and more stimuli and opportunities around us, we still feel bored.

Residual

Photographer: Frank Hoogeboom (Netherlands)

Prize: Analog / Film Photographer of the Year

Description: This series was shot on the Isle of Eigg, one of the so called Little Isles of Scotland. It's a tiny island but with a few very different beaches where you can have a field day as a photographer. All images were shot on b&w negative film using my trusty Hasselblad 500C(M).

Lost In The Museum

Photographer: Alex Polli (Switzerland)

Prize: Architecture Photographer of the Year

Description: This photo series captures the spectacular staircase inside the MKM Museum Küppersmühle in Duisburg (Germany). Built inside old industrial silos, the massive terracotta-colored concrete structure loops upward like a giant modern sculpture. With no people in the frames, the images focus entirely on the beautiful contrast between raw textures, warm tones, and geometric shadows. It is a visual journey through architecture, light, and silence.

Teren Zielony

Photographer: Fabio Domenicali (Italy)

Prize: Book Photographer of the Year

Description: In the winter of 2008, I traveled to Poland to search for the scars left by the twentieth century, from the Holocaust to Soviet domination. Instead, I was drawn to vast, silent landscapes of fields, forests, mountains, and frozen shores, places still shaped by memory and untouched by modern life. The journey became an intimate inner experience of silence and reflection. In 2023 I returned, avoiding cities, to seek that same thread of memory and enchantment. The photographs were taken during those two winters. They reflect time suspended, fragile presences, and the quiet magic of those encounter.

The 2025 Innaarsuit Icebergs

Photographer: Dennis Lehtonen (Finland)

Prize: Editorial / Press Photographer of the Year

Description: In July 2025, two gigantic icebergs threatened the safety of Innaarsuit, a remote village in North Greenland. The icebergs had drifted to the coast of the village, and if they were to calve or roll over, the small-scale tsunami caused by this could potentially have reached the coastal houses, putting the lives of the people in danger.
The municipality issued an official warning, and the local fish factory was closed. The icebergs were in a critical location for a few days before drifting away. With global temperatures on the rise, glaciers calve more frequently, producing more icebergs.

Machina Mirabilis

Photographer: Gurpreet Chawla (United States)

Prize: Event Photographer of the Year

Description: The weird and wonderful Mutant Vehicles of Burning Man. The only transportation allowed on the open playa, is mobile art. Participants bring their imaginations to life on wheels, each year in the Black Rock desert.

The Eternal Rerurn

Photographer: Oleg Buyanov (Canada)

Prize: Fine Art Photographer of the Year

Description: This work emerged from a spontaneous portrait session with an LGBTQ+ individual, shaped by immediacy and improvised props. Within unplanned gestures and poses, familiar curves and tensions appear — not as direct references, but as inherited echoes of the past. While eras and cultural contexts shift, the human body carries continuity, holding countless stories within the gaze.
Model: Anonymous
Art: Fallen Angel by Alexandre Cabanel / Saint Sebastian by Sandro Botticelli / The Creation of Adam by Michelangelo / Study by Hippolyte Flandrin / Head of a Young Man by Eugène Delacroix / David by Michelangelo

Smoking Skull

Photographer: Daniel Viñé (Spain)

Prize: Nature Photographer of the Year

Description: As the Fagradalsfjall volcano in Iceland fell silent, its cooling lava unexpectedly revealed the shape of a skull. Captured from directly above with a drone, this fleeting volcanic sculpture symbolizes the thin line between creation and destruction. A reminder that even in the aftermath of an eruption, nature continues to surprise with forms that exist only for a brief moment.

Mongration

Photographer: Nicola Ducati (Italy)

Prize: People Photographer of the Year

Description: In Mongolia, winter is not just a season, but a permanent condition that shapes every decision. This project documents the winter migration of a semi-nomadic family who, by tradition, move four times a year together with all their herds. Each migration is a necessity: following pasture, protecting the animals, and adapting to a landscape that shifts with the seasons.Tradition requires owning many animals, not as a symbol of wealth, but as a form of balance and survival. Horses, camels, yaks, and sheep move together across frozen steppe and vast distances.

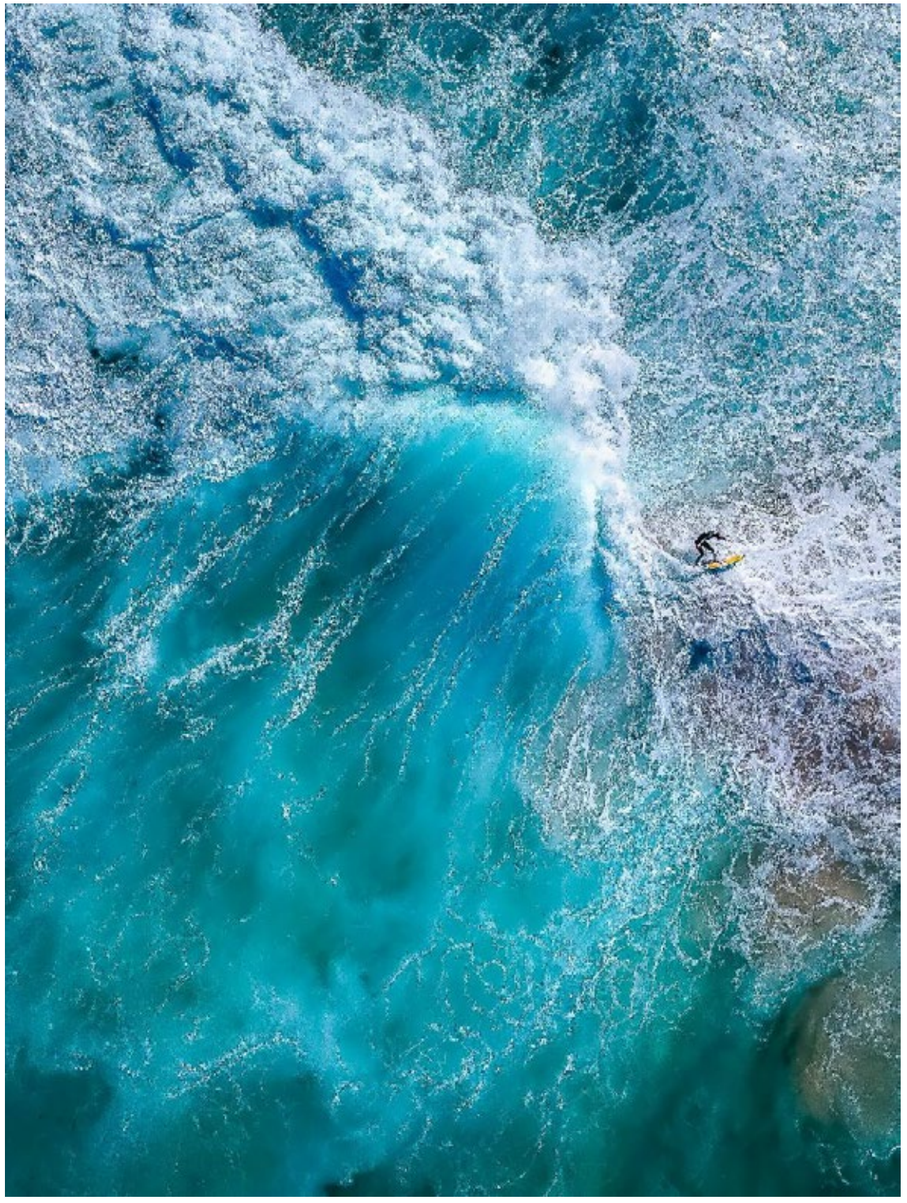

Iguana

Photographer: Masaru Takagi (Japan)

Prize: Special Photographer of the Year

Description: The iguana showed us some truly wonderful expressions and poses.

Avalanche

Photographer: Lorenzo Passalacqua (Australia)

Prize: Sports Photographer of the Year

Description: Avalanche turns the ocean into impact. Seen from above, the wave collapses like a mountain of water, swallowing the frame with the force of something alive and uncontrollable, with the destructive beauty of snow and stone. At its edge, a lone surfer carves through the chaos, not to escape it, but to exist within it. Suspended between danger and grace, the image strips the sea of comfort and leaves only scale, pressure and raw terrifying power — a reminder that courage is not the absence of fear, but the decision to ride straight into it, and the fragile resilience of those who dare to face it.

ABOUT INTERNATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHY AWARDS™

The International Photography Awards (IPA) conducts an annual competition for professional, amateur, and student photographers on a global scale, creating one of the most ambitious and comprehensive competitions in the photography world today.

The IPA contest is a sister-effort of the Lucie Foundation, a 501 (c) 3 non-profit, charitable foundation whose mission is to honor master photographers, discover and cultivate emerging talent and promote the appreciation of photography worldwide. The annual programming of Lucie Foundation is funded largely though the International Photography Awards, including the signature event, the Lucie Awards. We aim to salute the achievements of the world's finest photographers, to discover new and emerging talents, and to promote the appreciation of photography.

BEST OF SHOW SELECTION

Each year, the IPA invites a guest curator to select 40 to 50 images from both the professional and non-professional pools of first, second, and third place winners to be exhibited in an exclusive "Best of Show" exhibition that opens during the week leading up to the Lucie Awards Gala. The Best of Show exhibition then travels to various countries to be included in photo festivals, galleries, and other photography related events throughout the following year.
